Trans Effect

At the end of Glazing process, a layer of liquid Glossy glaze which called Trans effect then is sprayed on the tile and is moved in the tile kiln. In fact, the glaze fill porosities on the tile surface and finally present a brilliant surface.

Glossy surface

Glossy glaze is very bright and clear and reflect the light which makes the space more attractive. Also, it is cleaned easily but it shows dirt and contamination.

Stone design tiles

The stone design porcelain stoneware tiles reproduce some of the most refined stone types: Carrara, Calacatta, Travertine, Onyx. The collection is thought for interiors and residential spaces, especially living rooms, as well as for commercial areas. The stone design tiles have been dominating the market for over 10 years. Check out our selection of stone effect ideal for private environments as well as offices, covering all surfaces of the house and complying with both the modern and rustic taste.

Sugar effect

Sugar effect powder is a kind of special glaze which is Applied on the tile in glazing line. Sugar effect can be matt and glossy but the matt ones have more fans.

Through optimised production processes and the most advanced technologies, it is now possible to obtain products with extraordinary aesthetic qualities. As well as products inspired by continuous research into the most recent design and decoration trends, it is now possible to reproduce in an incredibly faithful way every type of material from wood to stone, concrete and resin.
